I went with im not sure.. I'll tell you why maybe other people can relate, maybe it'll help maybe it won't. I know you're trying to be honest and transparent, but i feel we have to be apprehensive about someone who comes out and tells us he's been an fbi operative for what, 20-30

Not an "FBI operative". Something more benign. A "peace activist" that some people might listen to. On a good day.

Even if Byrne is wrong (rare) it always appears to be from a place of integrity / honesty.

Dr. Byrne, a close friend of mine @Theonlyme333 and I have been following your writing and commentary since Dec 2020. I have not ever found you to be knowingly misleading or dishonest. I get frustrated sometimes at your inability to share details but that is also understandable

@PatrickByrne has been extremely instrumental in helping craft my understanding of that which I had always felt/sensed but of which had limited comprehension. As @piggrussell3714 has correctly characterized "A modern day Paul Revere"

I believe you because I know who you are and have followed and interacted with you for a few years now. Your details are consistent and build on info you shared a year ago....and like Paul Harvey...."And now-the rest of the story..."

6.4% clearly haven't been following you and listening to your "story" which is quite detailed and never changes. If it were made up there's no way one could keep track of all the details. Just keep the eyes in the back of your head open!
